Rainier strives to create the best retail and exhibit graphics in the industry.

1 case study: Vendange Pedestal Display

Canandaigua Wines asked Rainier to help them develop a tabletop display for one of their brands. Canandaigua's creatives provided a quick conceptual sketch which formed the basis of the design. Rainier developed studies of the pedestal to determine feasibility and costs, then generated computer renderings for client review.

After a few small dimensional adjustments, Rainier built mock-ups to aid in calculating material yield and production timelines. Following client approval of the mock-ups, Rainier produced the initial batch of pedestals for Canandaigua Wines. Now, when more displays are needed, Canandaigua simply gives Rainier a call and we build the quantities needed.

Chicago's world-famous Shedd Aquarium was introduced to Rainier by MDC Wallcoverings to produce all of the graphic display components for their Sea Stars Exhibit. Working closely with Shedd Aquarium's creative team, Rainier performed extensive pre-press work on digital art files, printed, mounted, routed and assembled display components for the exhibit. The completed exhibit parts were then carefully packed and shipped to the aquarium. Rainier's diverse capabilities allowed the Shedd Aquarium's exhibit designers to utilize a single vendor for all their graphic display requirements.

case study: Nordstrom 24/7 Window Displays

Rainier teamed with Nordstrom to produce all of the elements for their window displays in a very compressed timeframe. Rainier collaborated with the illustrator to maintain the integrity of original sketches made for the program.

Rainier engineered the 3D look, printed Gatorfoam panels, then cut them out on high-speed CNC routing equipment. Thousands of parts were collated, packaged and shipped directly to stores. Comprehensive instructions were created by Rainier to assist Nordstrom display personnel in the assembly and set-up of the window displays.
